

Scott C Reagles

August 23, 1964 - March 24, 2022

Brewster, WA

Scott Campbell Reagles, the man who wore a smile as big as the sky, undoubtedly heard the words, “Well done my good and faithful servant”, on Thursday, March 24, 2022. He left this world suddenly at his home in Brewster, WA. What a celebration he is experiencing now having come into the presence of his Savior, Jesus!

Scott was born on August 23, 1964, in Seattle, WA. He leaves behind his wife, Tracey Reagles (lovingly known as “Pokey”) and four children: Tyler Reagles (Miryia), Anthony Reagles (Whitney), Serene Hunt, and Victoria Reagles.

Scott was adoringly known as Hampa. He will be dearly missed by his granddaughters: Berkley Reagles (Tyler and Miryia) and Lyzette Reagles (Anthony and Whitney). He is survived by his loving parents, Virginia Reagles and Jack Coble (Jo Ann). He was preceded in death by his father, Dr. Vernon Jackson Reagles. Scott was blessed with sisters: Stephanie Tillman (Thomas), Anjeanette Reagles, Brigette Keller, Yvette Keller Paladin, Shannon Reese (Kevin); and his brothers: Jeffrey Reagles (Jen) and Tim Coble (Karen).

Scott graduated from John F. Kennedy Memorial High School in 1982. He then started a career in concrete finishing in the Skagit Valley. Through a “blind date” he met the love of his life, Tracey on September 13, 1985, in Brewster. They were engaged in one month and married 8 months later, on May 24, 1986. They began their lives together in Burlington, WA, and one year later moved to Brewster while starting a family. Scott continued to work in the concrete industry, until he began a career with Washington State Department of Transportation. He was serving the traveling public as Supervisor out of the Okanogan shed at the time of his death.

Scott loved deeply.

He loved Jesus, plain and simple. He loved his Savior. Scott loved the Word. He spent time reading the survival manual every morning. Scott loved to sing worship songs at the top of his lungs. The last time he walked through the front door, he was singing a worship song with all his might. Scott's smile and life reflected the joy that comes from possessing the saving knowledge of Jesus Christ. Scott shared the gospel every day and sometimes he used words.

He loved his wife, Pokey. He loved her as Christ loves the Church. He showed her never-ending grace, love, and sacrifice, exhibiting the fruits of the Spirit every day in the life he shared with her. Always smiling down at her. Still smiling down at her...

He loved his family. His boys who share so many of his attributes and made him so proud to be a father. He loved spending time with his sons, teaching them, loving them, guiding, and correcting them. And those precious gifts straight from God, his daughters. The sweet (and sometimes sour) girls who lit up his life and ignited his smile! And he adored those oh so special grandchildren who spoke to his heart in a way that is not easily put into words. Indescribable love...

He loved his friends, many of whom he considered to be family. His love was evident to everyone by way of his infectious smile and friendly disposition. Always ready to give a helping hand. He never knew a stranger. He said strangers were just friends he hadn't met yet. Scott carried a burden for those he knew. He spent hours praying for his family, his friends, and those he worked with. If he smiled at you, spoke with you, you were his friend.

Scott loved the water, all things water: Scuba, swimming, beach walking, and most especially, boating! He developed his love for water at an early age when his dad, Dr. Reagles, took him and his family on month long voyages on their big, beautiful boats. Scott's love for the water and particularly the ocean was deeply entrenched in his soul. His love for the water is closely tied to his love for family as the times he spent on the water were largely spent with those he loved the most.

Scott loved clean vehicles full of fuel, freshly cut, well-manicured yards, an organized workspace and he loved slow quiet mornings spent with Pokey. He loved tacos and he loved Swedish fish.

Scott loved many things and many people deeply. He leaves a tremendous void in the lives of so many.

Scott said many times, "Nobody is guaranteed tomorrow!" "To die is gain!" and "We are just sojourners here waiting to be called Home".

The man with a one-of-a-kind smile, Scott Campbell Reagles is Home.

“ I met Scott for the first time in the late 1980s when I started spending time with his sister, Stephanie. I remember I was in the family truckster with Steph and her family and we were in Anacortes, WA and at 7-11. Everyone all of a sudden started screaming because next door working on finishing a newly poured concrete driveway was Scott. When Scott looked up, the biggest smile in the world radiated from him.

Well, I ended up dating Stephanie and later we were married and Scott welcomed me into the family with open arms and heart. Every time Stephanie would be with him or talk to him on the phone it would give her a sense of absolute happiness, even when things were bad. When Steph was down she sometimes only needed to talk to Scott.

We so looked forward to him retiring and being able to spend more time together boating the San Juans. Now we will have to wait a bit longer, but we know he will be waiting to greet us. He and his Dad are probably getting the boat ship shape already.

“ Scott had a love of life, his smile and laughter were infectious. He had this wonderful way of making you feel special. He made me feel happy anytime I was around him. He sang with me when my father n law past away, which having him by my side, gave me strength. We also sang the National Anthem at numerous occasions. I remember watching him sing at church, he sang with so much joy and love. Love for his Heavenly Father...he radiated his faith. When I was around him he made me realize that faith, friends and family are what matter.

By my observation over the years.....Scott was a an entertainer, a handyman, amazing Father/Grandfather.....he always told me about his family, showed me pictures, so very proud and always with a smile.

Husband... his love for Tracy, wow, his love for her just poured out of him. When I was around them, you could see their love, the looks he gave her when he thought no one saw, showed such adoration and unconditional love.

Scott, you were the best example of how a human being should be. Your soul was beautiful! I will miss you and your love of life. Your spiritual passion for God! My heart hurts for all of us that you brought happiness to. May God be with your family! Love them so much!

Forever in my heart, my friend,

Alisia
